++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold with showers, and an ice risk Thursday night.

Today:
A frosty and bright start, with some areas seeing freezing fog patches that will be slow to clear. Things soon turn cloudier, however, as a band of precipitation moves south - giving outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Tonight:
Outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow continue southwards through the night. Widespread frosts are expected, locally severe over any snow cover, and turning icy in places. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Friday:
Some outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow linger for a time but begin to weaken into the afternoon, clearing by the night. Remaining cold and turning icy overnight. Maximum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Frosty and dry, with sunny spells Saturday. Milder temperatures into Sunday, as it becomes cloudier with outbreaks of drizzle. Turning unsettled Monday afternoon, with stronger winds and occasional rain.
